

Workforce Recruitment Program

Paul Meyer

Director, Employment Initiatives
Office of Disability Employment Policy

Two Key Questions

- If I asked you to hire a person with a severe disability for a permanent position based on a half-hour interview, how would you respond?
- If I asked you to hire a person with a severe disability for a 10-12 week paid summer internship, would you be inclined to be more positive?

Workforce Recruitment Program (WRP)

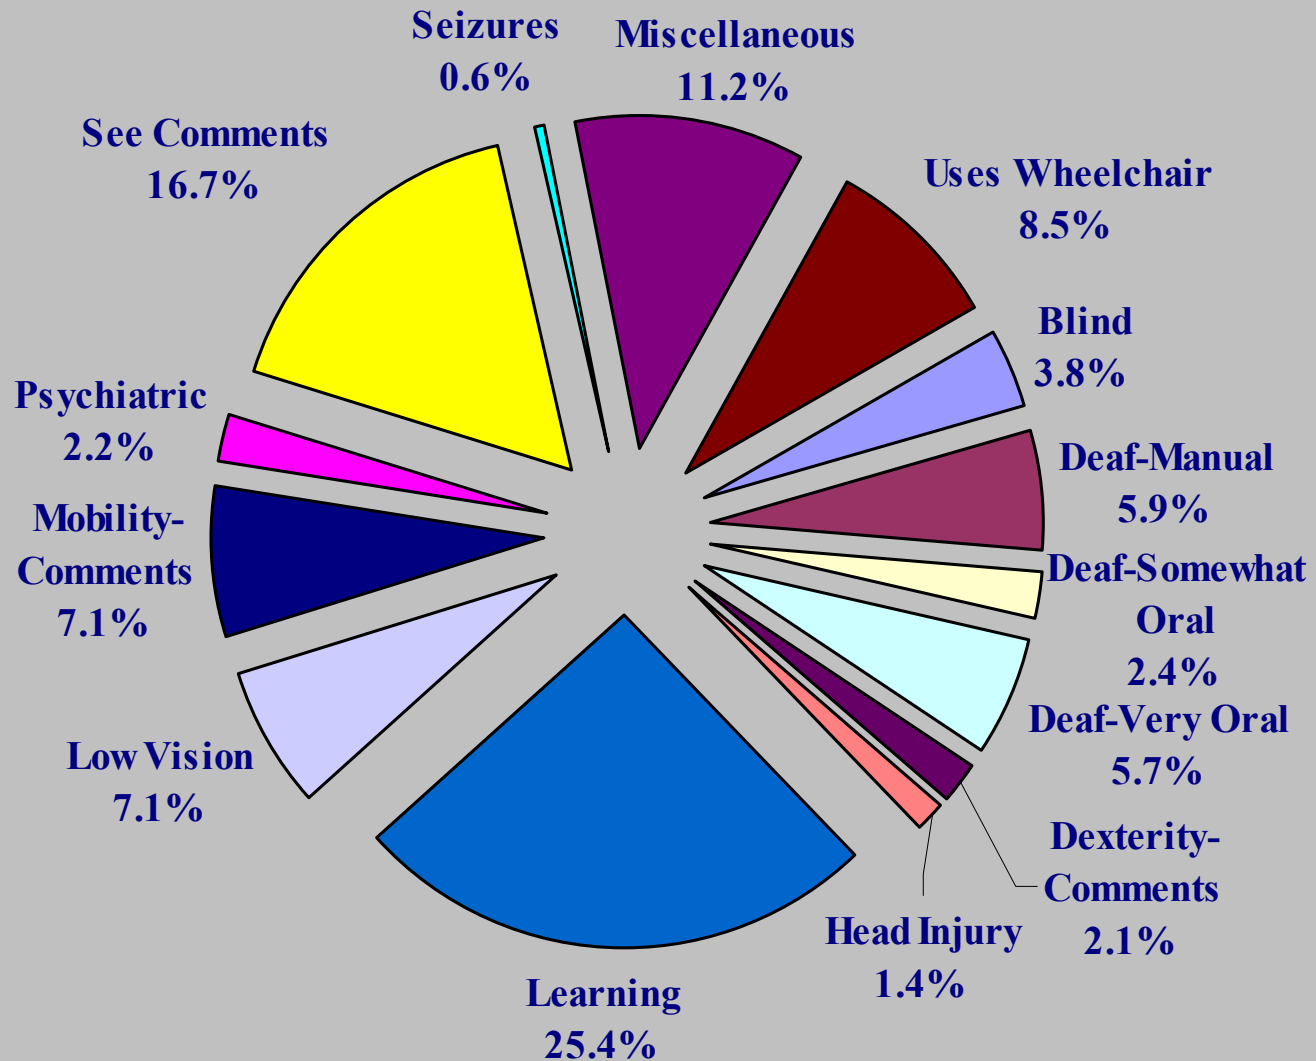

- Trained recruiters visit colleges and interview college students with disabilities
- Recruiters enter interview evaluations into a database system
- Recruiter databases are combined into one large database and put onto a CD-ROM
- Free CD-ROM is made available to federal sector and private sector employers

WRP Statistics for 2002

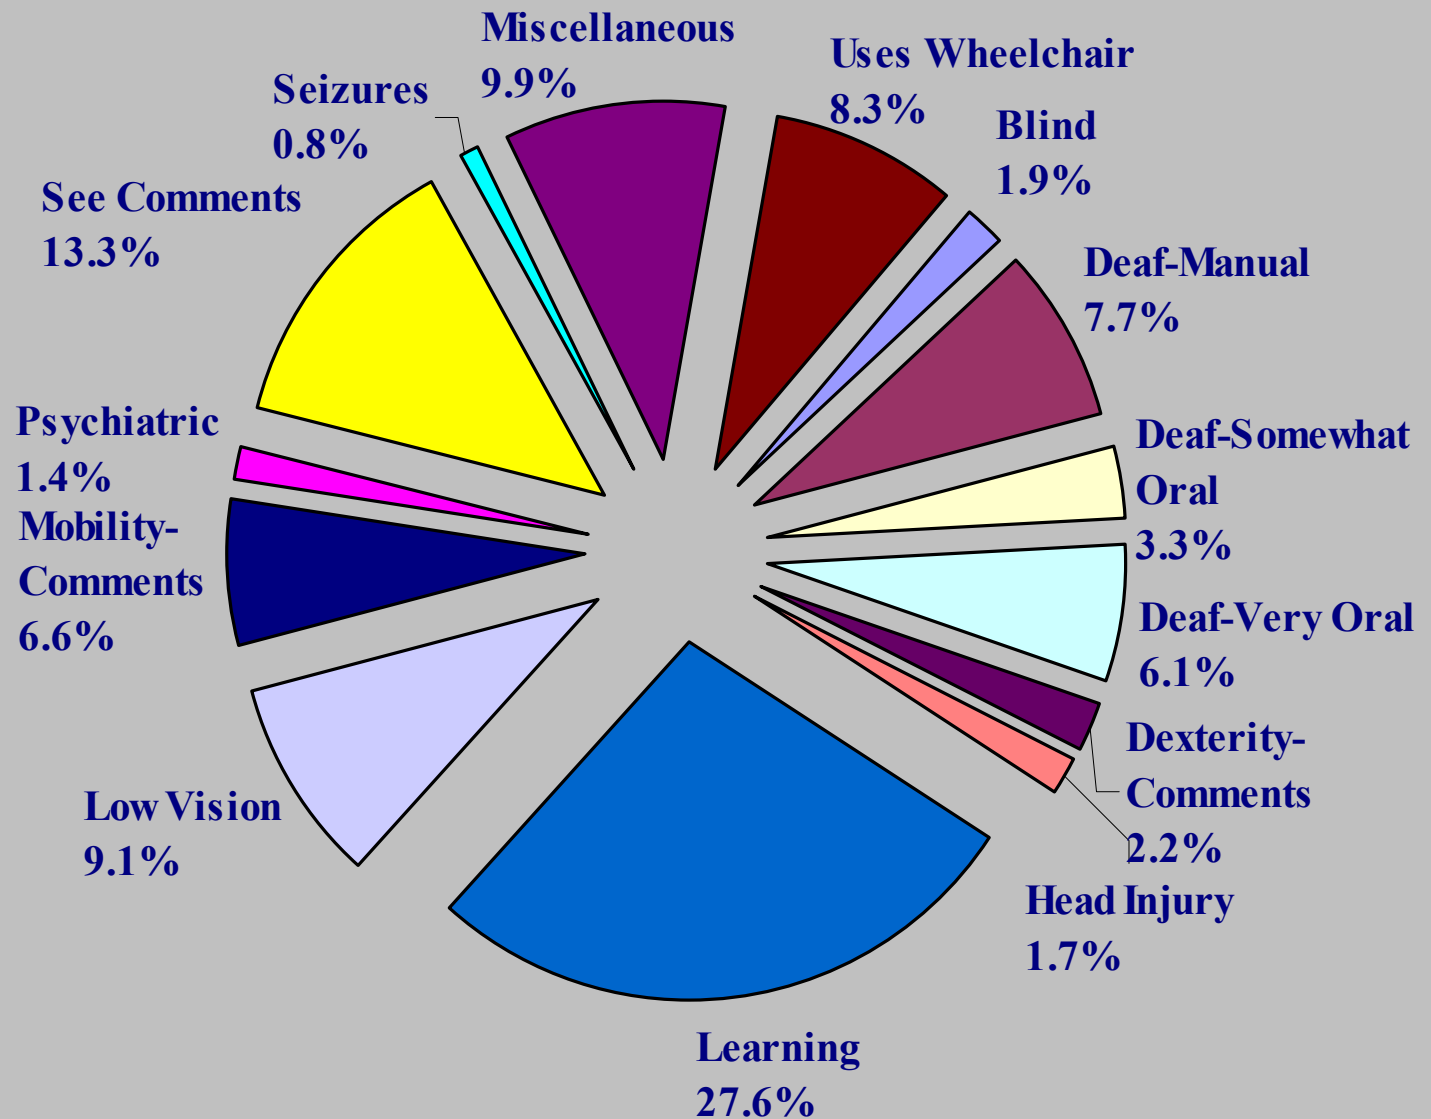

- More than 50 recruiters visited 200 colleges in over 40 states
- 1800 students entered into the database
- As of 1 January, 363 students placed nationwide
